

Hope Stuck (Working Title) (One Page Sample)

By

Aslan Hollier

Similar to "The Twilight Zone", this story shows a woman using the power of words to bind a man to never leaving the apartment in a place know as "The Relationship Zone". (Could be short film or part of series).

Aqueous Lion Productions

aslanhollier@gmail.com

Last Revised 6-18-14

BEN

Baby...

She pushes him off.

AMBER

No, don't even try. No nookie for you. You've decided. You watch your football. I'm going out.

He gets wide eyed.

She goes to the door and opens it, then turns back to him.

AMBER

Remember what that old Hispanic woman said while we were looking for houses? "If the woman or man is good to you, you do all you can to keep them because you could always lose them". I hope you get stuck in this place without being able to leave. Then, maybe, you would know just how it feels.

She turns.

BEN

Don't slam...

She slams the door.

He cringes from the sound of the door.

BEN

Hey, you know I take that shit seriously!

He runs to the door.

BEN

Amber! I know you didn't mean that!
Come back!

She's getting in her car.

He runs out to catch her, but runs right back in. He does a double take, and runs out the door, but ends up back inside. He gets wide eyed and does it one more time, but slowly.

BEN

No way!

He goes to the door frame and tries to wave her down.